Course Code	Course Title	Description	Academic Unit
MAC817	Psychopathology and Appraisal	Psychopathology and Appraisal provides an overview of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders 5th Edition (DSM-5) and equips students with the foundational knowledge relating to the etiology, identification, developmental course and treatments of various psychological disorders observed across the life-span (i.e., children and adults). The psychological disorders covered include, anxiety disorders, obsessive compulsive and related disorders, bipolar and related disorders, depressive disorders, personality disorders, somatic symptom and related disorders, dissociative disorders, schizophrenia spectrum and other psychotic disorders, feeding and eating disorders, and neurodevelopmental disorders.	3
MCL906	Chinese Educational Linguistics	Educational Linguistics is one of the major sub-fields of Applied Linguistics. It is an area of study that integrates the research tools of linguistics and other related disciplines of the social sciences in order to investigate holistically the broad range of issues related to language and education. With an in-depth knowledge of the educational linguistics, the teacher is better equipped to plan more effective and meaningful pedagogy. Overseas renowned scholars will be invited to share their forefront ideas, thoughts and experiences which will greatly benefit the students.	4
MML909	Theories of Grammar	The course will provide an overview of theories of formal syntax, considered from the perspective of logic, linguistics, and philosophy of language. Through the course, participants will progressively build up a consistent grammar for a fragment of Malay language, beginning from Pelita Bahasa Melayu as conceptualized by Zaba, a traditional grammarian to the modern grammar of Malay language. Through the fundamental concepts in syntactic analysis such as part of speech types, constituent structure and the syntax-semantics interface, participants will understand the formulation of grammar as a formal system of rules and constraints and how contemporary theories can be applied in areas such as language teaching and learning.	4
MTL903	Tamil Language in Education	This module aims to strengthen students knowledge on teaching Tamil as a second language in Singapore. The bilingual policy in Singapore will also be covered in the course. The module will elaborate on Language Acquisition, Language Learning theories. Strategies and approaches on teaching Tamil language and developing the four language skills of students effectively will also be elaborated in this module.	4
