

Dear HD students

The NTU Complexity Institute is seeking student assistants to support its project that examines what factors affect the effectiveness of lecture teaching using NTU recorded lectures as dataset. They require assistance to code 200 hours of recorded lectures. Training will be provided. Students will be required to download a free software. They code the recorded lectures at own time and place.

The payment rate is $10/hour.

Successful students will be required to sign a non-disclosure agreement at the start of the project, and delete any copies of the recorded lectures at the end of the project.

Should you be interested, please contact Associate Professor Cheong Siew Ann at cheongsa@ntu.edu.sg directly.

Best regards
Higher Degrees Section

Important Note to Full-time International Students

Full-time international HD students are allowed to work part-time terms and conditions for a maximum of 16 hours per week during term-time.

Full-Time international HD students have to apply for a Letter of Endorsement before commencing on his/ her employment. For more information, please consult the Student Services Centre.